It gives me great pleasure to provide this letter of recommendation for Carter Albrecht for his presence and abilities both as an athlete as well as a student. I have had the privilege of getting to know Carter as his pitching coach and also through discussions with his current coaches and teammates. Carter has always demonstrated focus and dedication to improving and succeeding, even when the game has dealt him unexpected challenges. I believe this to also be consistent with his obvious dedication to his academic performance in the classroom and as a teammate.

I would be remiss if I didn't mention that behind any exceptional person or athlete, there are exceptional parents. Chris and Jennifer are no exception to this.

Anytime an athlete willingly and consistently accepts the challenge to play "a game of failure" in my mind they instantly earn titles such as "resiliency", "determination", and "dedication". In my experiences with Carter I have seen him accept the challenges baseball presents and also witnessed his growth because of his commitment to the game and the goals he has ahead of him. It is because of this commitment that I believe Carter should be a welcomed addition at the collegiate level and will have a bright future ahead of him with baseball and also with life. With the experiences Carter has had, and his professionalism throughout them, I am confident he will be successful and I encourage you to strongly consider Carter to represent your program and your university.

Sincerely,
Chris Bootcheck
